Creative Commons (CC) Licenses

Trainer: Mihaela Stabver, SL USARB

CREATIVE COMMONS is a global non-governmental organization dedicated to supporting a free and accessible Internet, enriched by free knowledge and creative resources for people all over the world to use, distribute and develop.

Creative Commons licenses are easy to use, provide a simple and standardized way to give others the right to distribute and use personal creations in the way we decide from the beginning.

CC licenses allow you to easily change the copyright conditions from the classic "All Rights Reserved" to "Some Rights Reserved".

A license is a document that specifies what you can and can not do with a creation, be it a sound, text, image or multimedia. The license shows you the conditions of use and the restrictions.

In general terms, it is free licenses that give you access to the work, the ability to reuse and redistribute it without restrictions.
